Ohio State Lima journeys to York and London, England

The Ohio State University at Lima is preparing to study abroad on a tour of York and London, England, July 10-21. The 23-member group of faculty, students, and community members will explore the backstage of London's greatest theaters and stroll through York's medieval-era streets, while also experiencing some "out-of-the-way" places. The study tour will also give participants an in-depth look at some of England's most historic landmarks. Tour highlights include: dinner at the exclusive St. James Club in London; backstage tours at England's great theaters including the National Theatre and Shakespeare's Globe Theatre; Evensong service and a special millenium production of the Bible-based cycle plays at York Minster; and tours of Oxford University, Fountains Abbey, the Houses of Parliament, and the Tower of London.

July 2000

Tour leaders are Joe Brandesky, Associate Professor of Theatre, and Deb Burks, Assistant Professor of English. The pair will be responsible for orienting tourgoers, answering questions and providing in-depth discussions throughout the trip.

Scholarships Awarded

Final numbers on Campus Campaign show Ohio State Lima at 65 percent total participation! Congratulations to all those who supported the effort! Many participants designated their gifts to scholarships, and as a result, the following scholarships have been awarded to qualifying students:

RE-Entry Women Scholarship Fund:

Marilyn Cipollone

Lima Campus Scholarship Fund:

Katie Reames, Heath Wisher, Amber Renee Miller, Joshua Tudor, and Jason Hob

Hope Strong Journalism Fund:

Troy H. Jarrell

John Genter

Additional awards may be made as students continue to prepare for the 2000-01 school year. The Campus Campaign provides an opportunity for faculty and staff to participate in Ohio State's fundraising effort. Contributing to the effort demonstrates our endorsement of the University to colleagues as well as to our students, alumni, friends, corporations and foundations. Thanks to all who participated!

Green edits book

(This article is the first in an installment which features faculty projects. If you have a project you would like highlighted, please contact the Office of External Relations, ext. 8332.)

Dr. Joseph P. Green, Associate Professor of Psychology, has edited a book with Lynne M. Hornyak entitled Healing from Within: The Use of Hypnosis in Women's Health Care. The book is a comprehensive discussion of how hypnosis and imagery can be used to promote women's health. Health concerns discussed include those specific to women such as cancer and menopause, those more prevalent in women such as eating disorders and fertility, and those women also face such as cardiac disorders and smoking cessation. Vignettes and case studies are presented by experienced clinicians and distinguished researchers as relevant scientific literature and practical techniques are presented with customized treatments. The patient's active role is emphasized throughout the volume.

Healing from Within is published by the American Psychological Association and is available at the Ohio State Lima Bookstore.

"Camp is Cool"

Ohio State Lima hosted its annual Camp Invention June 12-16. A total of 64 kids from grades two-six participated in daytime events that included disassembling appliances and rebuilding a space ship in order to escape a deserted planet. The camp combined science, math, history and arts in hands-on activities for children who visited four imaginative activity modules that encouraged creativity and learning. Camp Director Sara Newman said, "On Wednesday, during the week of camp, I was walking out of Reed Hall and looked down where several of the campers had taken sidewalk chalk and written 'Camp is Cool!' I smiled because that's what we were there for. It was great to hear the kids explaining to each other how the air pressure made the bubbles float or friction is part of designing a roller coaster. The kids were having an active, creative, fun week. What we slipped in were Newton's Law of Movement, physics, engineering – boring concepts – and the bottom line was 'Camp is cool'."

Scholarships for Camp Invention were provided by Sprint, St. Rita's Medical Center, and the Fraternal Order of Eagles Post 370.

Faculty Innovator Grants Available

COLUMBUS – Technology Enhanced Learning and Research is offering Faculty Innovator Grant opportunities for summer quarter. The program, which opened on June 24, closes July 8 and offers awards of up to $1,000 each to faculty engaged in the innovative use of instructional technology in courses they offer at Ohio State. The program was begun in 1995 at the request of Vice Provost for Undergraduate Studies Bob Arnold and Senior Vice Provost and chief Information Officer Ed Ray. The program, which recurs on a quarterly basis, has received much interest and participation from Ohio State faculty. In each of the ensuing Academic Years, a total of $25,000 was awarded. The program continues for Academic year '99-2000. Applications can be made on the web at <http://telr.ohio-state.edu>.

Mystery Theater gets financial boost

The Many Hats of Agriculture and The Many Faces of Agriculture will continue to be presented in elementary school classrooms throughout the 2000-01 school year thanks to investments from LandO'Lakes and the Hardin County Farm Bureau. The hands-on programs establish a link between school-based learning and lifelong career issues by introducing children to Ohio products and over 30 related careers associated with agribusiness in the state. LandO'Lakes has committed $13,000 to fund the project, and the Hardin County Farm Bureau has invested $1,500 to support the program in Hardin County schools. Over 5,000 students have participated in the programs since its inception in 1998.

Ohio State Lima presents geography lessons for teachers

With the aid of a $10,000 grant from the Ohio Geographic Alliance, Ohio State Lima and Dr. Bill Ackerman presented middle and high school teachers with theories, concepts and hands on materials to become better geography teachers in their schools. In turn, the program will provide incoming students a better background in geographic training prior to attending classes at the University.

Dr. Ackerman was assisted in the course by Diann Brown. Brown is a middle school teacher and has previously worked with the Ohio Geographic Alliance. Her role was to take the class material presented by Dr. Ackerman, combine it with material she has developed on her own, and help teachers work it into suitable lesson plans for their own students. Each participant was provided with a large packet of materials from the Association of American Geographers plus a CD-ROM that they can take back to the classroom. The set contains 35 geography-based exercises that can be adapted to middle/high school courses.

Experienced classroom teachers attend

Ohio State Lima to train in *Pathwise

Experienced classroom teachers participated in a two-day Pathwise Mentor Level Training Workshop, June 20-21, 2000, on the Ohio State Lima campus. Twenty-five highly successful classroom teachers, from eight Ohio counties, took time from their summer vacation to train and learn to mentor new and entry-year teachers for their own school district(s) next fall.

The Pathwise Mentor Training is a researched-based assessment tool for the evaluation of essential classroom teaching performance by student teachers and teachers new to the profession. As a trained Pathwise mentor, the mentor will observe the new mentee's classroom instruction throughout the year and help them prepare for the Praxis III professional teaching exam required for State licensure.

The Pathwise trainers for the workshop were: Nancy Wood Allison, Lead Presenter (Supervisor of Instruction, Lima City Schools); Dr. Richard L. Mallonee, Co-Presenter (Workshop Coordinator, Ohio State Lima); and Debra G. Mallonee, Co-Presenter (Mediation Coordinator, Fairborn City Schools).
